

To our Valued Vendors.

Like you and your company, Wajax has continued to make changes to our business in the last few weeks in response to COVID-19. Our highest priority is the health and safety of our employees, their families, our customers and our business partners.

Among our changes, we have:

- eliminated all business related international travel and all non-essential travel within Canada,
- restricted access to our locations to essential personnel only,
- instituted work-at-home policies for employees where doing so does not affect our direct service to customers, and
- changed our Human Resources policies to ensure that employees who suspect they may have been affected by the virus are incented to stay home.

With the exception of personnel required for deliveries, we ask all our vendors to discontinue any visits to our branches, warehouses and offices until further notice.

Presently, there has been no significant disruption to our business or supply chain. Our leadership team meets daily via conference call to monitor the situation and we will continue to adjust in accordance with operational conditions and directives or guidelines from Canadian authorities.

If you have any questions, please contact your Wajax representative or call 1-877-GO-WAJAX.

Thank you for your business,

Wajax
